Have a joyful Christmas

By Fr. Steve Emanuel
GACC President

While this may not be the first Christmas present you receive, we hope that it will be a welcome one.

It will certainly be a unique gift because it is the first time it has ever been offered.

This is our inaugural electronic edition of the Guardian Angels Central Catholic Alumni Newsletter that I will refer to as "NEWS FROM THE NEST". I don't know that I have swayed our editor-in-chief regarding the name change, but I do know that it was his idea to offer you this Holiday Bonus Edition!

So special thanks to Michael O'Brien ('04) who is the architect of this plan. His inspiration and hard work are the reason you are able to enjoy a glimpse of the future of this product.

It also affords me an opportunity to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year. Please accept my heart-felt thanks for all that you have done and continue to do to help us further 130 years of learning and leading through Christ.

I pray that this brief edition will help inspire in you the peace and joy that is our gift from God.

Hagemann baby joins nest

Proud parents Kate & Bill Hagemann welcomed their first child, Brynn Elizabeth Hagemann, into the world. Brynn (9lbs 10oz & 20 inches) joined the Bluejay nest on December 16. Kate, a 2000 graduate, is the principal of GACC School.

GACC Newsletter now going digital

By Mike O'Brien
Newsletter Editor

The GACC alumni newsletter is in the midst of a transition. One change is the newsletter will be going electronic. The hope is to reduce cost while expanding the range of publication.

Because GACC is family, the newsletter will be geared more towards a "school newsletter." Alumni will still be featured, as well as current students and staff. That being said, GACC staff and students will be contributing content to future newsletters. This will provide readers a better insight as all the good things happening here at GACC School.

While the GACC School Newsletter will be going electronic, there will still be one "year in review," which will be printed at the end of the academic school year. Each newsletter can also be found on the GACC website.

Due to the change, we are asking everyone to submit their email address to the parish office to receive their copy of the "News from the Nest" Newsletter. Thank you.
